“ Man, this is so sad to hear. My condolences to Dr. Benevides' family. He was a blessing for me when i was 19 and having my first child. He made my hospital stay wonderful and made sure my munchkin was healthy. When I had my last two children I wanted someone like Dr Benevides however the closest I got to his kind and loving nature was my last child's doctor. God has received one of his greatest creations. Thank you for everything.

“ *Received sad news yesterday
My OB/GYN /friend/doctor, (Dr Henry A Benavides) passed away too soon. Words cannot express how much this man meant to me. He was an amazing friend/physician & we could talk for hours. (The staff always made my appointments late because my visit would set back all appointments hehehe)
He delivered all 4 of my daughters & my granddaughter. He took care of my health with all sincerity & I was blessed to have this wonderful physician be MY physician. There is no other and I trust no other. I pray that his daughters & family find peace & comfort. I hope that they feel proud of the man he was because he was AMAZING. I am truly honored to have known him for 25 years.
I love you Dr B forever*

P.S. who's going to take care of me now :(

“ Aww, this man not only delivered my two sons but performed a surgery to remove a large cyst in my ovary. He had to remove it during my pregnancy, already in the beginning of the second trimester. He warned me of my chances to lose my son but he was confident in his work. So I proceeded with it. I was a new mom at the age of 19 so he was a bit strict with me but he would joke around to make me feel like he wasn't scolding me. After the surgery he was excited to see me in recovery to announce that ever thing went well, that my son was ok and that he removed my cyst. He told me he had to remove my ovary with tube as well but that I had a son to look foward to raising him and I healthy. My chances to have more were very slim but possible, obviously..6 years later here comes my second son. As soon as I knew I was pregnant I contacted his office and made my appointment. The first thing he say is "Again" laughing with his great big smile as if I was in his office often. He was late to deliver Angel because he went home to eat, lol he then gets there and says Angie you're supposed to wait for me! I know many women who complain their dr don't tend to them, quick 5 min visits after hours of waiting but that wasn't our case. I'm was happy that I had a great dr who took great care of me and my two boys! Blessings to his family, you're in my prayers!

“ I started working for Dr. B as a receptionist at 18. He was like a father figure to me. He loved talking smack to me everyday, I mean everyday for 5 yrs. He would always pick on me about the guys I would date. Even though he never said it, I always knew he did it because he cared about me and loved me. That was his way of showing me. He knew I loved him too, because I never let myself, I always put up a fight. He loved it! I will miss you Sir. and that laugh (hehehe) Summer & I love you. May you finally R.I.P. Say hi to dad.....XO

“ Dr. Benavidez did my cancer surgery 2 years ago, when all the other doctors told me I wouldn't make it or ever have kids; he believed in me and told me he would do my surgery and that one day I would be blessed with a child. My daughter just turned 9 months yesterday. God bless you Doc, you will be missed.
