“ I was visiting my cousin, Mundo , once and I asked him about how bad it was during the Korean War and about how they dealt with the cold. He said it was freezing cold and when they were on sentry duty the striking bolts of the rifles would freeze up. So he said we figured out how to deal with that, I said how? He said we would piss on it until the mechanism would unfreeze cause piss is warm. Everyone was doing that cause it worked. He always had stories. I'm going to miss our visits Flicka (his nickname growing up)
